

econstruction

econstruction products ltd specialists in ecologically friendly building solutions is pleased to announce it has partnered with Abbey Insulation to become a certified installer of their revolutionary, and sustainable Insulation product.

Biobased Spray foam is an environmentally friendly insulation product using the rapidly renewable resource of soy bean oil in place of petroleum. For every kilo of soy Polyol that replaces an equal amount of petroleum, 5.5 kilos of CO₂ are removed from the atmosphere.

Applied as a liquid, Biobased Insulation is far more effective than conventional insulation types, rapidly expanding to 100 times its size to permanently fill every cavity, crevice and void. The resulting insulating foam provides a sealed thermal envelope, keeping conditioned air inside and unconditioned air outside reducing energy costs by up to 50%.

Launched in the US in 2003, Biobased Insulation took the construction industry by storm winning numerous awards and quickly gaining recognition as the top green energy saving insulation product on the market. National Green Building Awards 2003 - Outstanding Green Product of the Year!

Sligos longest established insulation company Abbey

Insulation are keeping up to date with the latest developments in insulation and building regulations by becoming a specialist contractor in the field of installing Biobased. Their highest standard of workmanship and excellent service have been the cornerstone of Abbey Insulation since 1996.
